By a letter, Docket Entry No. 96, the plaintiff requests that the Court direct jail administrators to “to afford me access to typewriter & kios [sic] computer access.” Jail administrators have the discretion to manage their facilities and to determine the circumstances under which those they have in custody may access the jail’s property and services. The Court has determined to defer to the determination made by the relevant jail administrators as it relates to the plaintiff’s access to a typewriter and computer. Therefore, the plaintiff’s request is denied. The plaintiff is reminded that he must submit all writings to the court’s Pro Se Office and not directly to the Court’s chambers.

The Clerk of Court is directed to mail a copy of this order to the plaintiff.
